

Amt Viöl

K&C

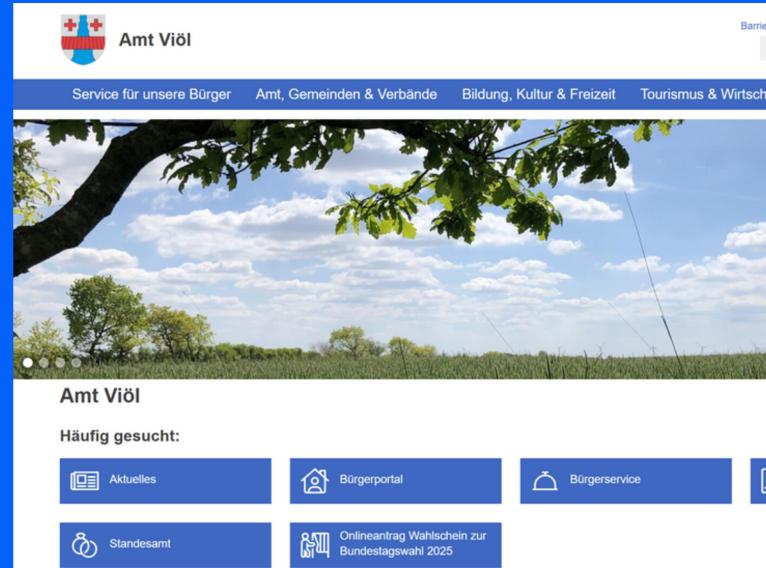

From Paper Trails to Digital Pathways

In just five months, K&C and Amt Viöl delivered a user-friendly funding platform that helps local governments apply faster and win more grants.

About Amt Viöl

Amt Viöl is a small rural municipality in northern Germany. Like many local governments, they face the challenge of navigating a complex and fragmented landscape of public funding opportunities for community projects. To support themselves and 11 neighboring municipalities, Amt Viöl envisioned a digital solution that would simplify the funding application process and increase success rates.

Success Story

From ideation to launch, the Funding Scout project was a model of efficient collaboration between a diverse international K&C team and the Amt Viöl stakeholders. Despite working across time zones and languages, the team delivered a fully functional, user-centric platform within five months. Built with a scalable monolithic architecture and an intuitive UI, Funding Scout is already helping municipalities reduce time spent on applications and increase their success rate.

The project became more than software delivery – it was a cross-cultural experience and a digital leap for rural Germany.
